situation: A high end office fit out for a medical software solutions company. solution: Jasmine scented walls present the clients in this office space with a truly unique experience. A decorative surface finish made from all raw materials, the Jasmine Blossom panels not only looks amazing, it also exudes an amazing delicate fragrance! CLP Architecture worked closely with Atkar to develop the design considering different textures and scents. Varying sided panels were placed in a random pattern creating a contrast with the other textures around it. An excellent project boasting authenticity and originality, the overall result is impressive both to look at and smell!
